Treasurer's Report

St. James's Treasury Report Reported Results Year to Date through February, 2014

Current Position: After a strong finish in 2013, the church has started 2014 slowly. Although it's difficult to use two months of experience to identify and depend upon trends, the church ended February with almost a $15,000 deficit relative to budget. Almost all of the shortfall is due to income coming in at a slower pace than expected. Specifically, current year pledges are $11,330 below where they had been budgeted for the year. Expenses are $124 less than the budget through the end of February and helped to slightly reduce the overall negative variance to the budget. In the next couple of months, we should gain a better perspective on any emerging trends.

Income & Expense Summary:

Category	YTD Actual	YTD Budget	YTD Variance	Total Annual Budget
Income (+)	$180,497	195,631	15,134 Below plan	764,300
Expense (-)	131,923	132,047	124 Below plan	764,300
Net	51,467	63,584	15,010 Negative variance to budget	0

Income: Year-to-date (YTD) actual income is $15,134 below budget (or 7.7% worse than budget).

Expense: YTD expenses are currently $124, or 0.1%, below budget. Some categories are slightly above budget while others are slightly above budget so specific expense categories will not be discussed in detail this month.

From the Assistant Rector

Dear Sisters and Brothers,

“‘Missionary’ is such an ugly word,” I thought.

I planned to spend twelve months in Quito, Ecuador, teaching English as a second language to 120 students between the ages of four and thirteen. “I am going on mission, to do some good work as I see what God is up to in a different part of the world. I will be changed by this experience, and when I return home I will be sad to go—I’ll want to call Ecuador “home,” and I will be filled with an overwhelming sense of accomplishment and achievement.

I thought I was so in control of this twelve-month mission. I called myself a “missioner” because “missionary” seemed like such an ugly word that drums up connotations of proselytizing Christians seeking only to make others conform to their beliefs. I didn’t want to convert anyone; I wanted to grow.

Growth is painful, as it turns out. All of those feelings of accomplishment and achievement were absent at my departure from Ecuador. Instead I felt guilty for leaving two months early (due to medical circumstances) without doing anything “substantial.” I also felt elated because I wouldn’t have to deal with my stressful work conditions, abusive students, and unhelpful coworkers.

This made me feel even guiltier, because instead of leaving with “proof” that God was up to something special in this little Ecuadorian cathedral school, I had the suspicion that God wasn’t—with a side of “good riddance.” And had it not been for an amazingly wonderful host family, I would struggle to provide any happy memories at all from my time in Ecuador.

As it turned out, my year of mission was more appropriately described as a pilgrimage—one that took me deep within myself and caused me to confront prejudices I never imagined that I could possess. I learned about my limits during conflict. I learned how difficult Jesus’ commission is to bring to fruition. More importantly, I learned that mission is what we do while God may be doing something very different within us.

That, I believe, is where mission and pilgrimage intersect. While I might have thought that I was trying to teach English and become a part of a different kind of community, I was really on a journey that has yet to be brought to completion.

Episcopal Priest and Missiologist Titus Presler lays out ten marks of mission for the Anglican Communion in his book Horizons of Mission:

1. Proclaim the gospel with baptismal confidence.
2. Serve as sacraments of Christ in relationship.
3. Live as companions in solidarity with the suffering.
4. Receive Christ as pilgrims with others.
5. Nurture human wholeness in grassroots communities.
6. Struggle for jubilee justice, reconciliation, and peace.
7. Collaborate with other churches and Christian groups.
8. Explore gospel expression in diverse cultures.
9. Cooperate with people of other faiths.
10. Celebrate Eucharistic community.

What do you notice about these ten marks? Do you notice how none of them describe physical labor or service projects? Do you see that Presler’s focus is on relationship with others and with God, rather than achievement or accomplishment? And finally, do you realize that #4 places us on the same journey as those whom we meet?

It can be difficult to follow Jesus’ commandment to love one another when the other is so different and opposed to our goals and ideas of how to achieve something. For me, it was difficult to delve deep into relationships characterized by Christ-like love largely because I could not break through my identity as a “missioner.” I was so focused on my role as a missioner that I often forgot to be a fellow pilgrim.

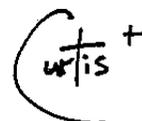

This June, about a dozen youth and a few of us “adults” will fly to the Dominican Republic for what we are calling a “Mission Trip/Pilgrimage.” We will go with the intention of orchestrating a vacation Bible school for 150 children and making repairs to the building and grounds of the parish called Santisima Trinidad, or Holy Trinity. That is our mission, but we will arrive in Santo Domingo as fellow pilgrims with the people of Santisima Trinidad.

What Presler’s ten marks also imply is that we can all “do mission” every day of our lives—in fact, proclaiming, serving, living, receiving, nurturing, struggling, collaborating, exploring, cooperating, and celebrating are not only things for mission trip groups to do. We all have countless opportunities to engage in mission with our neighbors.

So whatever you call it—whatever it is you do—do it with these ten marks in mind, and do it with the knowledge that you are on a pilgrimage with those you meet. Do everything with gusto, and take time to notice what God has been doing in your heart all along.

And as John Wayne might’ve said, “see you on the journey, pilgrim.”

Your brother in Christ,

SUNDAY, March 9 was the first Sunday of Lent. It was also a very busy day here at St. James's. There were new offerings for adult formation and new Sunday school units for the elementary and middle school children. It was also the second Sunday of the month which means there was youth group for middle and high school students. In addition we began something new at St. James's. We began Rhythms of Grace, a liturgical experience for children with special needs. It was a fantastic, busy, lively day.

I began the day with Children's Liturgy. We acted out the story of Jesus being tempted in the desert. We had three different kids play Jesus and three different kids play the devil each time. We also had several children who chose to be the rocks that Jesus didn't turn into bread. It was a great time and many good questions came of our discussion like, "What would have happen if Jesus had turned the rocks into bread?" Everyone agreed that we were glad that Jesus was tempted yet did not sin.

Then to Sunday school—the elementary school and middle school children are doing a unit on the Last Supper for this Lenten season. The first lesson was an art lesson, where the children did a color-by-number of DaVinci's The Last Supper. This unit included information on the painting as well as the saints depicted in the painting. Thanks to Deb Ross for teaching this lesson. The second is watching a Hanna-Barbera movie called, The Easter Story. The short film was amazingly well done. Who would have thought that the same people who brought you, Yogi Bear and Captain Planet could do such a good job on the story of Holy Week? Thanks to Virginia Kramer for teaching this lesson.

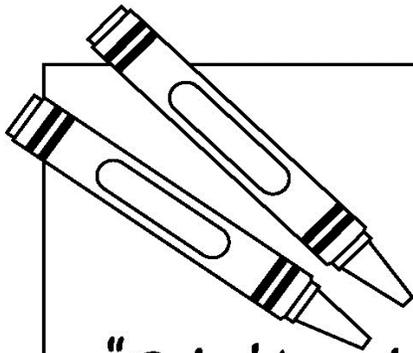

Next came the first Rhythms of Grace service. Although the attendance was low, the children who were there seemed to enjoy it, as did the parents. We played with shaving cream, scooted boats around in a water table, and made tornados in a bottle. The highlight, for me, was all of us receiving communion at a low table on the floor of the chapel. I certainly felt God's presence among us as we did the sign language for The Lord's Prayer.

Lastly came youth group—we had a good turnout for this time of year, 15 in all. We ate a delicious dinner provided by Kimberly Goodrich and Diane Duva, and spent some time playing all types of board games, before we finished with the parish-wide Compline Service. At first there were a few giggles from the kids, but they soon settled into the mystical nature of Compline.

So, like I said, it was a busy day. I can honestly say that at each event, I felt the presence of God. Whether it was when a kindergartener covered his eyes, not to see the crucifixion during the movie, or a boy with sensory issues dug his hands into the shaving cream, or high school and middle schoolers enjoyed a new game together. God was with us, and for that I am truly grateful.

In April, there will be no Sunday school on Palm Sunday, April 13 as we will be doing the Easter basket intergenerational event or Easter, April 20. All are welcome to attend the Good Friday Service for Children on April 18 at 10 a.m.

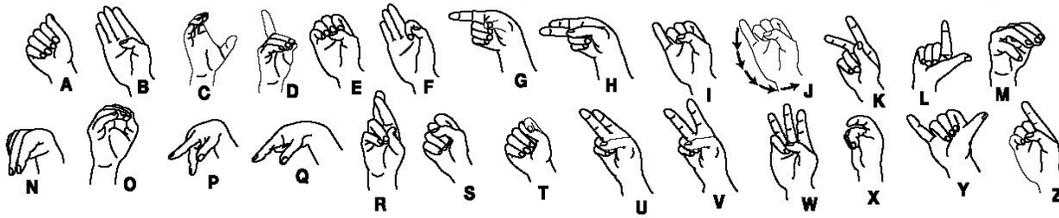

Your Sister in Christ,

THE Mass "ordinary" is made up of the sung texts that appear unchanged in every Eucharist. Can you name them? There are five: Kyrie "Lord, have mercy," Gloria "Glory to God on high," Credo "I believe in God," Sanctus and Benedictus "Holy, Holy, Holy," and Agnus Dei "Lamb of God." How did you do? If you could name all five, congratulations. You win the silver church geek award! In truth, at St. James's our mass ordinary is a bit watered-down: instead of doing a Kyrie and a Gloria we usually choose one or the other. And often our Agnus Dei is replaced with a fraction anthem. But otherwise, our mass ordinary is just as it has been in Christian churches for two millennia.

Now for the difficult part: the texts that change from one service to the next, known as the Mass "proper." "Proper" in this case just means "appropriate to the day." They're not wearing elegant hats or anything like that. To compete for the golden church geek award, you'll have to know a few mass parts that are never done here at St. James's, although most Roman Catholic churches still use them. Are you ready? The mass proper consists of: 1) An introit (at St. James's we do sing an introit, but we use the same one for every service rather than singing the words appropriate for the day), 2) A Gradual (we replace this with a "sequence hymn"), 3) An Alleluia (we don't do this one at all: it would come right before the gospel reading), 4) An offertory (our choir does actually sing an offertory!), and finally 5) a communion anthem (which we also sing). Did you know all five? Then you win the golden church geek award!

These mass parts are important in music history because the first polyphony (that is, more than one note sung at a time) appeared as decoration to chant melodies. Ironically, much of the innovation happened in the "Alleluia," which is one of the ones we never sing. The reading of the gospel was one of the high points of the service and the Alleluia prepared everyone for the occasion. And since "Alleluia" is only one word it was very easy to decorate it! Composers eventually began to make unified settings of all of the texts from the mass ordinary, and this is known as a "mass setting." Most often our mass settings at St. James's are written to be sung by the whole congregation and not just the choir. Next time you find yourself in church, reflect on these texts that have been used in the same order for almost two thousand years.

All gifts are important to name and identify, and we'll do that, including the opportunity for participants to take a spiritual gifts inventory. But more than naming and perhaps identifying gifts, we'll also discuss their purpose. What do these gifts have to do with how we live our lives together as the body of Christ? How do we celebrate and demonstrate this wondrous diversity?

Seamen's Church Institute

THE word is in – for the third consecutive year, SCI collected over 20,000 knitted articles (20,649 to be exact) that got distributed to the Ports of NY & NJ (4,567), Bay Area Ports (yes, we are on the west coast now – 2,309) and on the Inland Waterways (6,877). Quite impressive totals! And thanks to all of you knitters connected with St. James's who helped reach these goals. On to 2014!

And these gifts were most gratefully received as you can see from these quotes –

“Thank you for the giving spirit of SCI and all of its ministry volunteers. Before our vessel departed the US East Coast in November, we were presented with the gifts. These helped lift the spirits of the crew while we celebrated Christmas in the Gulf of Aden this season. The knitted caps are sure to keep us warm as we spend the next week crossing the North Atlantic.”

“The crew and myself would like to thank everyone for the box of Christmas goodies and most needed handmade scarves that all the deck crew has used during the cold spell. It's a great feeling to get gifts during that time of year when we are away from home.” This from a vessel on the Inland Waterways.

We could use more knitters – yarn and needles anyone?

Spring Rummage Sale – May 9 and 10, 2014

Spring Cleaning Time

SPRING IS here, and we are planning for the rummage sale in May. Here are some guidelines as you begin gathering items for the sale:

- ◆ Items may be brought to the church basement beginning Saturday, May, 3. Please do not bring anything in before that date.
- ◆ Shoes need to be new or nearly brand new.
- ◆ TV's, computers and any other electronic equipment must be in working condition.
- ◆ Separate your rummage by category and label your boxes/bags accordingly; i.e. women's, men's, boys, girls, infants, books, shoes, etc. Many of you have done this for sales in the past, and it has really made a difference.
- ◆ Bring hanging clothes (dresses, suits, blouses, shirts, coats) on hangers to be hung on available racks.
- ◆ Please be selective when sorting your rummage. We ask that everything be clean and in good repair. Please, no stuffed toys or large exercise equipment!
- ◆ We can not sell cribs. Because of limited space, we can not take ski equipment.
- ◆ Finer items will be sold in the "Boutique".

We also need your help before, during and after the sale. Volunteers are needed for:

Sorting: Friday, May 9	9 AM to 5PM Come for as long as you are able
Pre-Sale: Friday, May 9	6:30 to 8:30 PM $5 Admission. Public and parish are welcomed.
Sale: Saturday, May 10	9 AM to 12 Noon Free Admission - optional $5 and $10 bags. Public and parish are welcomed.
	12-12:30 PM - Cleanup immediately following the sale.

Please call Cindy Welch at 860-561-5560 to volunteer or if you have questions. Sign-up sheets will be available in the weeks preceding the sale.

The Women of St. James's would like to thank all of you in advance for helping with the sale. So many of you contribute items and volunteer your time to make this sale a success every year. Without all of you, this would not be possible. Thank you very much!
