news from St. James's

From the Rector's Desk

Dear Friends,

I am sitting down to write this letter a few days after Easter Sunday and the thought of that morning still brings a smile to my face. The morning was just about perfect; a good size crowd with many folks I have not seen in a really long time, beautiful flowers, glorious music and of course, my favorite, baptisms. The energy in the room was palpable. The Spirit was alive and hard at work. Anyone who saw me could tell I was loving every minute of it, and I think most everyone there was as well – it was good church.

Anyone who knows me and my ministry knows that baptisms are one of if not my favorite liturgical thing to do. I love everything about them: the children (both those being baptized and those helping me consecrate the water), the music, the families, and I believe that the six final questions in the baptismal covenant are probably the best and clearest “explanation” of how to live as a good Christian.

One other aspect of baptisms that I really enjoy is the opportunity to meet new families and reconnect with others. For me Baptism is a sacrament of welcome – welcoming children (usually) and their families into the St. James's community and into the wider Church. It is about hospitality - the telling and showing folks that there is room at the table for all. Invitation and welcome are two of the most Christian and Christ centered acts that we can participate in. They were a vital part of how Jesus lived out his ministry and one of the ways that we can easily follow his example. To do so is to live into two, if not all, of our baptismal promises.

To seek and serve Christ in all persons, loving your neighbor as Yourself.

To strive for justice and peace among all people, and respect the dignity of every human being.

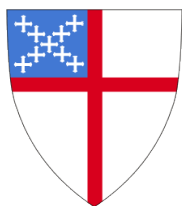

This year we have already had several baptisms and have even more on the calendar in the upcoming months. On Mother's Day I will have the opportunity to baptize my and Priscilla's granddaughter, Millie. Luckily The Rev. Curtis Farr, dear friend and past associate rector at St. James's, will be preaching. I know myself and my preaching way too well to think that for a minute I could make it through that sermon. Another nice connection is that Curtis also preached at Rob and Katy's (better known as Millie's parents) wedding.

Please join me this spring and summer as we welcome all of these wonderful young children into the Church.

Your brother in Christ,

RELECTING ON EASTER WITH ST. PAUL

We've enjoyed spending four weeks in Lent on an adventure with Paul, traveling back in time 2000 years to immerse ourselves in his world. In particular, we've taken a trip back to ancient Corinth, a lively, acquisitive, diverse "land of opportunity" on a narrow isthmus between the Aegean and Ionian seas. This is the city where Paul gathered congregations over a period of about eighteen months, and this is the city to which he wrote several letters, including those we know as the First and Second Letters to the Corinthians. Paul was a situational thinker and theologian: He responded theologically to particular situations. His response to the situation in Corinth can be best characterized as a resurrection response, or an Easter response: to a divided, fractious body, Paul responded with the image of a unified, glorified, eternal body; with, in short, the image of a raised, resurrected body. It's in Paul's letters to Corinth that we learn the answer to an interesting question: What did Easter mean for Paul? What does it mean the God raised Jesus from the dead, and that Jesus died and rose, appearing to followers in his raised body? What are we singing about when we sing on Easter morning that Jesus "once, upon the cross, suffered to redeem our loss" and that "the pains that he endured our salvation have procured?"

There are two classic answers to this question, each compelling in its own ways. One is known as a "transactional" understanding of Paul, and is perhaps better-known. In this model, Jesus died as a redemptive, liberating gift of grace to restore us all to right standing with God. Jesus' death in this view was an atoning act; Jesus stood in for us as a sacrificial offering to atone for our sins. Our sins stand as the "loss" invoked by the great hymn: our loss of right standing with God, a loss of innocence, perhaps, or of righteousness; our unfathomable and tragic leaving-behind of that peaceable Kingdom, ruled by love, that God now restores in Christ.

That's a good answer! And yet, as we've discovered together over our time with Paul, it almost certainly isn't Paul's primary understanding of Jesus' death and resurrection. And here's where we get to the heart of Paul's Easter message to us.

†Paul was at heart a Christ mystic. His model was less substitutionary than participatory. In other words, for Paul, God's greatest gift isn't so much standing in for us in our individual sin. God's greatest gift lies in the new life of the Spirit into which we are all invited, in which we all share, in which we all participate.

†For Paul, Jesus' death wasn't simply a solitary, single act of love. It was that, of course, but it was much more, as, in Paul's view, Jesus' dying and rising again is extended to all of us. Paul offers baptism as an image and a template: in the waters, we die and from the waters we rise again. Paul is very clear in his language. We die with Christ, and we rise again with Christ. And it's in this death and rising again that sin is defeated and that right standing is restored. That right standing, for Paul, is borne witness through life in the Spirit, or life in the Body. And it's what we celebrated so joyfully and palpably here at St. James's on our own Easter morning as we gathered around Savannah and Magnolia to witness the sharing of this radiant, unmatched gift — new life in the Spirit — with them.

And so, with its triumphant melody re-echoing still, we remember the great hymn of Easter and the new life it celebrates. Our loss redeemed and our salvation procured, we are now invited anew to participate in the risen life of Christ. Here's Paul:

*You have been raised with Christ!
So let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts,
since as members of one body you were called to peace.
And be thankful.*

Peace and blessings,

Alan

Music at St. James's Eastertide 2022

FIRST, an enormous thank-you to our choir for their extraordinary music-making throughout Holy Week. From Palm Sunday's sung passion to Good Friday's deeply moving collaboration with the St. John's choir through the Vivaldi Gloria on Easter morning (together with thrilling descants) it was a most memorable week indeed! A special thank-you to our young virtuoso violinists John and Samantha Kramer, who brought such beauty, color, and joy to our Easter worship.

So what's next for our music program in Eastertide and beyond? We've got lots planned and we extend a broad invitation to join us! Opportunities include the sneak preview of a brand-new program, Monday Music and More, for our youngest members, the regathering of our Boys and Girls Choir, a concert on our sanctuary Steinway, and a choral jazz mass on Pentecost Sunday.

†Monday Music and More

A joint program between Music and Christian Education, Priscilla and I are thrilled to launch a new program we've been cooking up called Monday Music and More. Designed for children ages 3-8, the idea is to gather on Monday afternoons in two groups: the Cherub Choir (ages 3-5) and the Junior Choir (ages 6-8). While one group is singing in the large choir space, the other group gathers in the adjoining smaller choir room for art projects, drama, storytelling and more. We'll meet on Monday afternoons from 4-5:30 weekly beginning this coming fall, with preview experiences on deck for Monday, June 6. Watch your inbox and service leaflet for more details!

†Boys and Girls Choir

We also anticipate with joy the regathering next fall of our signature chorister program, the Boys and Girls Choir. Designed for children ages 9 and up, the choir meets Wednesday afternoons at 5. The choir sings on Sunday mornings and for holy days, and our rehearsals offer full immersion in our great sacred musical traditions. While the program relaunches in full next fall, we invite all choristers to a special rehearsal on Wednesday, May 4 at 5:00 and for the service on Sunday morning, May 8. We will sing an old favorite anthem, The Lord Is My Shepherd, joining the adults once again in the choir loft.

†Piano Recital

I was honored to play at the dedication of our sanctuary Steinway a few years back when I joined Colin Jacobsen for music of César Franck. I remember the first time I ever played it. After just a few phrases, I stopped, gasped, looked at Vaughn and said "I think this is my new favorite piano ever." I still feel that way! On Sunday afternoon, June 5, I look forward to playing favorites by Bach, Handel, Mendelssohn, and Haydn in an hour-long recital that will begin at 5:30.

†Jazz Mass

Finally, please mark your calendars for Sunday morning, June 5 at 10:00 when the choir will be joined by string bass and more for the beautiful and evocative jazz mass by Bob Chilcott. Veni Sancte Spiritus!

Church at Its Best

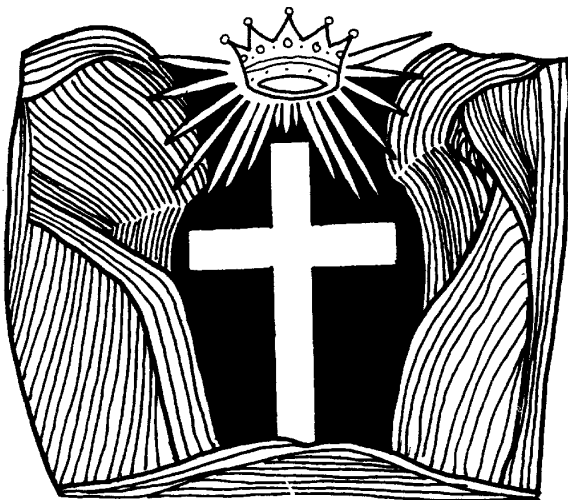

BEFORE coming to St. James's — during the worst months of the pandemic — I led a virtual Evening Prayer service on Facebook every Saturday. It was fun and different. One of its most enjoyable aspects was the reaction of people who had little-to-no familiarity with the Episcopal Church (or any church, for that matter). A hyper-secular Millennial friend of mine started calling me “Mother Angelica” after the iconic nun who hosted a television show on religious television for decades. I can't say I didn't get a chuckle out of it. It was clever and funny. It was also my friend's way of saying that the language of liturgical Christianity was completely alien to him. My little spoken service on Facebook did not resonate or seem particularly accessible.

The language and practices of the church can be tricky. They are intentionally different from those of secular modernity. The point is to cultivate a distinct sense of the sacred. At the same time, it can quickly become self-referential and — yes — idolatrous. In the several months I have been at St. James's, I have been so struck by how healthy and natural worship feels here. It is distinctly sacred, and it is unfussy. It is authentic and holy. What a gift!

That authenticity and holiness shone through on Easter Sunday in a way I have never experienced before. There was such joy. Such newness of life. It was everything church should be. Anyone present who may have gone in with reservations about ‘organized religion’ and traditional Christianity probably did not hold those reservations very long. When church is at its best like it was on Easter Sunday, we feel the power of God in our lives. Our hearts are transformed and enlivened without even thinking about it. This is the grace of God — I am endlessly grateful to be part of a community that excels in making God's grace known to seekers and believers alike. This is the church God needs in the world today. Alleluia!

God's peace,

Jonathan

Bring a Friend to Church 5

HAPPY EASTER! As the weather warms up here in Connecticut, there are some great things happening for children at St. James's. Coming up on the weekend of May 13-14, is a great program at Camp Washington called, Growing Hope Forging Peace. This is a FREE overnight for middle school and high schoolers at Camp Washington and a free day event on Saturday for families that might like to attend. The speaker is Shane Claiborne, a prominent speaker and activist who worked with Mother Teresa in Calcutta and founded The Simple Way in Philadelphia.

If your child would like to attend the overnight, please go to the Camp Washington website and register today! There are links to the overnight event and the day event on Saturday. This is a great opportunity to try out Camp Washington if you have never been. If you are considering sending your children to camp in the future, maybe the day event on Saturday would give everyone an idea about how great a week at Camp Washington can be.

There will be other fun events throughout the summer months for families at St. James's including the Fourth Friday Pizza parties and as always, KFC (Kids for Christ) or Sunday school every Sunday morning. Weeks ago on Easter we had over thirty kids attending, which would be a great turnout for any Easter, much less one after the trials we have all faced recently. Keep on coming, there is lots to learn and explore about our faith!

I am excited to announce that beginning in September, The Rev. Alan Murchie and I will offer a weekly program called Monday Music & More! It will run from 4 to 5:30, children ages three through eight will gather at church to learn music and art. Alan and I will divide the children by age, I will take one half of the group for 35 minutes, Alan will take the other, then half-way through we will gather for a snack and switch. With Alan, children will be singing and learning music. With me, they will be playing games, and doing art projects. The program will be free, with a small fee to cover the cost of supplies. Over the next few months we will get more information about Monday Music & More, but I wanted to get the word out about it as soon as possible, as many of you will begin planning your fall schedules over the summer.

Speaking of summer, I hope that when you and your family are not traveling, that you join us for church on Sunday mornings. Summer services tend to have smaller attendance but are just as joyful!

Your sister in Christ,

Hartford Catholic Worker Vegetable Garden

AFTER a season of darkness, there is light, after the grays of winter give way to the colors, there is blossom and bloom, promise and hope. Petals open, as if in song, and usher in a season of rebirth. We at St. James's have actively participated in this season of rebirth for the past 11 years by planting, nurturing, and harvesting vegetables grown on the church grounds. We then celebrate the weekly harvest by giving it to those in need through deliveries to the Hartford Catholic Worker House in Hartford. Please join us in this beautiful project and sign up to help with planting, weeding, harvesting or delivery. We meet Wednesday mornings each week from 8:00 to 9:30 to tend the garden. As the crops begin to mature and produce, we deliver the weekly harvest to the HCW at 18 Clark Street in Hartford. It is a little work but it's also fun and a nice social time enjoying the morning outdoors. The volunteer list is on the table in the Cloister. Please sign up!
